Bookweek 2016
The day dawned bright and sunny,
Monsters came from near and far.
They came out from under beds and dreams,
And arrived by bus and bike and car.

The hall was where they came to dwell,
Monsters of all shapes and sizes.
Though frightful in appearance
For some it was easy to see past disguises.

They all took turns to tour the floor
And model their inner selves,
Trolls and princesses, vampires and cookie monsters
Rubbing elbows with some elves.

A very tall koala presented prizes,
For work that was well done.
Some games were played and mummies made
All in the name of fun.

We would like to thank the teachers and the parents,
For going that extra mile.
For giving support and encouragement,
The reward – a child’s smile.

The parade was the culminating event celebrating
Book Week in the last week of last term.
Thanks to all organisers, supporters and participants who contributed to this memorable activity.
